Joe Rice and Ron Motley founded Motley Rice in 2003 with 50 other trial lawyers. Their focus was straightforward.

If it means going to trial, we will.

We will aggressively seek justice against defendants in every industry, including the financial sector. That's how our founders achieved the largest civil settlement in litigation history, the $246 billion Master Settlement Agreement with tobacco companies. Many said it couldn't be done—our lawyers did it anyway.

Motley Rice has grown to become one of the nation's largest plaintiffs' law firms with 9 offices and 150 attorneys. We're fighting for the rights of investors, consumers, workers, and government entities, and we are currently lead counsel in the National Opioid Litigation.

Motley Rice brings diverse experience and tenacity to bear in its securities fraud and complex financial cases. Securities cases do not go to trial often, but our attorneys do. We prepare every case as if it will go to trial.

We have a track record of successfully resolving some of the most complex and high stakes civil litigation in the country, resulting in billions of dollars of settlements and jury awards.

Let us apply our courtroom and negotiation experience to recover plan asset losses due to complex financial fraud.

WHAT WE DO FOR INSTITUTIONAL INVESTORS

- Evaluate complex financial cases at no charge
- Quarterly reporting on recent class cases and settlements
- Put our deep bench of trial lawyers to work for you litigating and resolving complex financial cases of all varieties

SERVICE

- Helps institutional investors fulfill their fiduciary duties
- Serves as an asset recovery tool
- Enables clients to make informed decisions about losses caused by fraud
- Helps clients protect their investment assets proactively rather than reactively
- Monitors both US and foreign securities actions

PORTFOLIO MONITORING

Our portfolio monitoring service is designed to tell investors how pending securities class actions affect them, when settlement funds are available and how to seek a distribution from the settlement fund if they are eligible.

Our goal is not to suggest an investor take legal action in every instance of suspected wrongdoing but to provide the factual and legal insight needed to make informed decisions regarding their legal options.

Motley Rice will advise only on cases that matter to our client. We analyze the loss, the merits of the case involved and whether the client serving as lead plaintiff will make a difference.

“ONE SIZE”

INVESTORS

It is a mistake to assume that securities fraud cases are only about class actions.

Sometimes a class case will protect your interests. Sometimes it won't.

Motley Rice's goal is to provide you with the factual and legal insight needed to evaluate how best to protect your interests and maximize your asset recovery opportunity.

THE VALUE OF OPTING OUT

Motley Rice advises institutional investors on when to consider opting out of pending class actions in favor of initiating their own direct actions against the same defendant. In certain cases, opt-out litigation may provide significant benefits, which could include:

- Recovering a significant premium over the class action;
- Bringing suit to recover losses from alternative investments, such as an unregistered debt, or any security not included in the class action;
- Collecting any recovery in a significantly shorter time frame than the class action;
- Incorporating additional legal claims not available in securities class actions;
- Exercising greater control over the litigation, including the time period covered, the claims included, the forum chosen, and the settlement terms; and
- Negotiating on a private, confidential basis an agreement tolling the statute of limitations for claims and achieving a recovery without resorting to filing a complaint.
