1 quantitative presentations, there is not a
2 statistical investigation as to the 3 comparability of the estimates, either to the 4 populations from which they're drawn, or 5 bracketing that, to whether the two estimates
6 from two different surveys would be 7 consistent with two noisy estimates of the 8 same underlying quantum, which would be the 9 assumption that would be consistent with 10 extrapolation, or, in the alternative, to 11 there being two different quanta actually
12 that corresponded to what was being measured
13 by the surveys --

14 Q. Okay.

15 A. -- so not really a statistical
16 investigation of the properties.

17 There would also be work that 18 would be more qualitative in nature about the 19 comparability of the phrasing of the 20 questions, things like that.

21 Q. Okay. So in your experience as 22 an economist with expertise in statistics,
23 are there accepted methodologies that are 24 used to evaluate whether a survey can be 25 extrapolated from the time period in which it

1 was taken to a broader time period?

2 A. Yes, there are.

3 Q. And does Mr. Saba apply any of 4 those techniques?

5 A. No. I believe his position in 6 his rebuttal report is consistent with him
7 saying that he didn't need to support further 8 his assumption that he could extrapolate, but 9 without any real statistical analysis
10 attached to that.

11 Q. Okay. Let me show you what
12 we'll mark as Exhibit 7 to your deposition,
13 which is titled Rebuttal Trial Report of Carl
14 S. Saba, MBA, CVA, ASA, ABB, February 20th, 15 2026.

16 (Whereupon, McCrary Deposition
17 Exhibit 7, 2/20/26 Rebuttal Trial
18 Report of Carl S. Saba, was marked for 19 identification.)

20 BY MR. PEREZ-MARQUES:

21 Q. Do you have that in front of 22 you?

23 A. I do.

24 Q. And if you look at 25 paragraph 134 of that exhibit, he states --
