Random thing. I just logged into Snapchat for the first time in a while to see what progress they're making with AR. What surprised me is how porny and inappropriate the content they're featuring is in their equivalent of Reels (Spotlight) and their 3P content stories (Stories). I was completely blown away that they haven't faced more scrutiny for this, especially given that their audience skews so much younger. It's not nudity but it's really raunchy. I would never let my kids anywhere near this. It seems like we could easily get more scrutiny on them for this, and perhaps that would help the next time we face scrutiny for youth content on our services.
