(3/02/2019 17:29:22 PST):
>You ok with me forwarding Mark's draft privacy note to [] [] Antigone, and [] so we can get their input as well?

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 17:54:13 PST):
>I don't even know what it is

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:00:48 PST):
>Ugh

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:00:55 PST):
>Sure you can share it

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:01:02 PST):
>We are about to do a bad thing as a company

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:01:05 PST):
>This is so irresponsible

(3/02/2019 18:01:29 PST):
>I corrected a couple high-level things (hopefully).

(3/02/2019 18:01:39 PST):
>Much of it actually doesn't read that badly.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:01:53 PST):
>I'm not very invested in helping him sell this, I must say

(3/02/2019 18:02:06 PST):
>The section on safety seems pretty problematic

(3/02/2019 18:02:20 PST):
>Feels like we are committing to stuff we absolutely can't deliver on.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:51:31 PST):
>Absolutely

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 18:51:34 PST):
>We should say that

(3/02/2019 18:56:03 PST):
>I'll say this, though – overall I actually think it's a pretty good message.

(3/02/2019 18:57:37 PST):
>Do you think we could pull off some of the impossible commitments and preserve the essential point?

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 22:48:53 PST):
>No

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 22:49:10 PST):
>There is no way to find the terror attack planning or child exploitation

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 22:49:17 PST):
>The stuff we do the proactive referrals on

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 22:49:19 PST):
>Period

(3/02/2019 22:57:26 PST):
>Nod – by impossible commitments I specifically meant the E2EE section – and the gross misstatements of our ability to conduct safety operations w/ E2EE.

(3/02/2019 22:57:41 PST):

>was wondering whether there were other parts that looked fundamentally problematic, or just that section.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:05:24 PST):

>I thought [REDACTED] edits were good

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:12:15 PST):

>Yes

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:12:19 PST):

>I think so too.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:12:38 PST):

>The bolded sentence being by far the most important part.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:13:01 PST):

>It's so frustrating to see people handwave away the cost by imagining we'll just bootstrap past it.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:13:09 PST):

>I have seen so much of that in crypto debates.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:14:18 PST):

>Whether we end up going there or not, doing it while telling ourselves and the world that it won't have any impact on safety seems both bad business (the surprise at the end of it isn't a good thing), and deeply irresponsible.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:15:16 PST):

>I completely agree

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:17:21 PST):

>It's a shame, because I think some of the other narratives – the focus on transient data, privacy, etc – is actually useful.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:17:31 PST):

>But the magical thinking just kills us.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:18:08 PST):

>Right. This is not a world of chocolate rivers and gumdrop trees

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:19:08 PST):

>Or if it is, we are munching happily away while ignoring the existence of tooth decay and diabetes.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:19:10 PST):

>Sigh.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:19:13 PST):

>I am going to sleep.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:19:19 PST):

>Perhaps this will all be fixed in the morning.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:19:42 PST):

>Me too and I'm going to dream of chocolate rivers and gumdrop trees because that sounds so nice....

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:19:52 PST):

>It does!

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:20:07 PST):

>Btw: do you know if the comments we're seeing in that thread are actually going to [REDACTED] through some other venue?

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:20:22 PST):

>I think people are emailing them

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:20:24 PST):

>To him

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:20:26 PST):

>I'll ping tomorrow when I wake up – want to make sure no one is waiting on us to get them in.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:20:28 PST):

>Cool.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:20:51 PST):

>I'm sure you're right about the whole thing being fixed by the time we wake up.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:21:04 PST):

>I'm presuming you can handle it.

Monika Leigh Bickert (3/02/2019 23:21:12 PST):
>100%

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:21:19 PST):
>Cool.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:21:26 PST):
>Can you fix this 2FA thing while you're at it?

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:21:28 PST):
>it's killing me.

[REDACTED] (3/02/2019 23:21:34 PST):
>And seems utterly unsolvable.
