Additional Information:

Meta uses an AI “adult classifier” model to help determine whether a user is an adult (18 and over) or a teen (13–17). The model considers signals such as profile information, account creation date, and a profile’s interactions with other profiles and content. This helps Meta determine when a user’s true age may be different from the age they provide when signing up to use our services (shown in the “Approximate Age” field of the CyberTip). Meta uses signals from its adult classifier model when determining whether there is an apparent violation of one of the enumerated laws listed in Section 2258A of Title 18. Where there is an apparent violation, Meta generates a report to NCMEC.
