Subject: Feedback for Curtiss

Hi Pratiti,

I worked with Curtiss today on annotations in response to my research on problematic use which I understand was leaked to the press.

Curtiss was amazingly supportive and made me and my collaborator validated in having done the research well. He allowed us to be a part of the annotation process which made us feel included and heard. Despite the time crunch he was so friendly and really facilitated a team spirit for us researchers who were pulled in to help. Also, the process was well-designed - conducting independent reviews from us who did the work and a set of expert researchers who were unfamiliar with the work.

I felt very good about how it went and am very grateful to Curtiss. He really showed up with empathy in a moment that is stressful, unpredictable, and scary for any researcher in this situation. I would have sent a thanksbot but decided to send a message to you instead because of the sensitivity of the leaks. I know there is a "don't show in Feed" option but I thought this is the safer way.

Warmly,

Anneke
