Research Insights

Anneke Buffone on December 14, 2021 at 10:20 AM
Recently, the research on problematic use I worked on was leaked via the WSJ Facebook papers. I wanted to share my experience with our updated internal annotation process & an appeal to come together as a research org moving forward. ❤ cc: Pratiti, Ronan, Gina, Elissa, & Beth

> Pratiti Raychoudhury on December 14, 2021 at 10:37 AM
> Thank you for sharing this Anneke and for being such an empathetic leader
> Judy Jinn on December 14, 2021 at 10:49 AM
> Learning about this process also helped me build some empathy for leadership. Unfortunately most people in the community didn't get a chance to hear from leadership about what happens behind the scenes and how they adjusted the process after the initial town hall. I'm glad you're sharing it! And I'm even happier that you are allowed to share this with us at all.
> Anneke Buffone on December 14, 2021 at 10:56 AM
> I am so glad I got to share this and that is is helpful.<3
> Gina Pingitore on December 14, 2021 at 11:02 AM
> Anneka, thank you sharing your views. Your post is very thoughtful and I hope others find it helpful.
> Ronan Bradley on December 14, 2021 at 11:46 AM
> I really hope that others won't be put in the position you were put in when your work was shared publicly in this way but I am so happy that your experience of how we are learning to respond was positive. Hopefully, you sharing this will also reduce the concern others in our team may have about what would happen if their work was leaked some day. Thank you for sharing!
> Elisabeth Zimowski on December 14, 2021 at 12:14 PM
> Thank you for sharing this Anneke Buffone FYI Page McCarley Donnelly Rachel Mersey Letitia Onyango

Tennessee v. Meta
Case No. 23-1364-IV

DX3508